WHereas His Majeſty hath granted to Diſney Stanyforth, of Firbeck-Hall, in the County of York, Eſq; and Mr. Joſeph Foljambe, of the ſaid County, his Royal Letters Patent for the ſole making and uſing a new invented Plough, whereby Land may be ploughed much better for the Increaſe of Corn, and at one Third leſs Expence, than by the Ploughs now in Uſe; beſides ſeveral other Advantages accruing to the Farmers by the Uſe of the ſaid new invented Ploughs, which Hundreds of them having experienced, now uſe no other ſorts. And whereas by the ſaid Letters Patent all other Perſons are ſtrictly commanded not to make or uſe, or in any wiſe to counterfeit, imitate or reſemble the ſaid new Invention, without a Licence from the Patentees or their Aſſigns, Notice is hereby given, That all Gentlemen and Farmers, on giving two Months Notice, may have the ſaid new invented Ploughs delivered to their Order in London, with all Iron Work, at Twenty two Shillings each, and Licences for uſing the ſame on reaſonable Terms, by applying to the Proprietors of the ſaid Patent, or their Agents, in Norfolk-ſtreet, London, where Attendance will be given on Mondays and Fridays, and where Letters directed as hereunder (if Poſt paid) will be taken in and anſwered. That Ploughwrights or Blackſmiths applying and giving Notice as aforeſaid, may have Licences for making the ſaid Ploughs; and the better to keep up the ſame to their real Goodneſs, the Ploughwrights may be furniſhed with the Inventor's Plough Moulds, at Three Shillings each Sett, and the Blackſmiths with his metal Share Moulds, at Four Shillings each Mould, without which the ſaid Ploughs cannot be truly made; whereas by Help of the ſaid Moulds, neither the Ploughwrights or Blackſmiths need ever fail making them to perfection, and conſequently the Farmers, to their great Advantage, may always depend on good Ploughs. That Ploughwrights or Blackſmiths living near any of the great Roads within Thirty Miles of London, upon applying as above directed, may be inſtructed in the true Method of making the ſaid Ploughs and Shares, and employed by the Proprietors to make Numbers on their Accounts, in order to accommodate with greater Expedition ſuch Farmers who deſire to have them; till ſuch Time as their own Ploughwrights be qualified to furniſh them. Notice is therefore further given, That whoever ſhall diſcover any Perſon or Perſons, that in Contempt of His Majeſty's Royal Authority, ſhall preſume to make or uſe any Counterfeit or Imitation Ploughs without a Licence, ſo as he or they be convicted thereof in any of His Majeſty's Courts of Juſtice, ſhall receive from the Proprietors of the Patent, a Reward of Five Pounds on ſuch Conviction, and reaſonable Charges whether convicted or not. NB. The Farmers will not run the leaſt Hazard in taking Licences, by reaſon they'll have the Ploughs at a leſs Price than their old Sorts, and need not pay any thing for their Licences, unleſs after ſix Months Experience they are convinced that the Ploughs deſerve it.
